

---

Medical Anthropology Minor

Medical anthropology incorporates biological and cultural anthropological approaches to health and disease. The Medical Anthropology minor provides a holistic, integrated, and cross-cultural overview of this subfield. In particular, we study the cross-cultural and evolutionary aspects of incidence and patterns of disease, healing systems, growth and development, and women's health.

Required Courses:		Credits
ANTH 202	Cultural Anthropology	3
ANTH 345	Medical Anthropology	3
ANTH 347	Humans, Disease, and Death	3

Electives:

Students must take at least three of the following classes. Additional classes, including one from outside the Anthropology Department, may be substituted after consultation with your adviser.

ANTH 320	Cross Cultural Aspects of Mental Health	3
ANTH 321	Cross Cultural Aspects of Women's Health	3
ANTH 365	Archaeology of Death	3
ANTH 382	Human Osteology	3
ANTH 383	Genes and People	3
ANTH 411	Anthropology of AIDS	3