“What children take from us, they give... we become people who feel more deeply, question more deeply, hurt more deeply, and love more deeply.”
Sonia Taitz, Author of Mothering Heights

Spring is finally here!
So here’s “an Ounce of Prevention” from Safe Kids Worldwide:

Bike to School Day is May 7th. It’s the perfect time to talk to children about the importance of wearing a helmet.

Opening windows to get some fresh air is great – Just make sure to use window guards. Remember: Screens are meant to keep bugs out, not children in.

Never, ever leave children alone in a car. Cars can heat 20° higher in 10 minutes! Heatstroke can be fatal.

Welcome to Toddler 1 Ms. Talitha...
Our new Assistant Teacher was home schooled and attended Penn State. She was employed for five years as a childcare provider for twin girls. Her hobbies are baking, drawing, reading and walking in the woods ☺

Cauliflower "Popcorn"
Toss 3 cups small cauliflower florets with 2 tablespoons olive oil and 1/4 teaspoon pepper.
Roast at 450 degrees F., uncovered, for about 20 minutes or until lightly browned, stirring once or twice. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese.

Just for Laughs
A six-year-old boy ran up to his mom and gave her a big hug saying, "Mom... if You were a Refrigerator, I’d be a Magnet!”
