Back To School: A Reflection of a Full Professor, “Life Long Learner”

Abstract: The presentation reflects on the “Life Long Learner” going back to school to earn an Associate degree in Veterinary Sciences Technology; to observe and evaluate teaching styles, lectures, practica, labs and assessments of teaching effectiveness and evidence of student learning; to better understand the process of applying to school, financing school, balancing the life as a part and full time student while having a full time job and the stresses involved; to place oneself in a highly vulnerable situation of having to learn, study and take tests to earn grades hopefully reflective of knowledge gained, and to complete a several year goal which would open up doors for life after retirement.
