Teaching Scholarly Research Writing in Thailand:
A Fulbright Experience

Abstract: This presentation will outline a two-week Fulbright Specialist experience that focused upon teaching scholarly research writing in English to non-native English speakers who were Thai scholars. One fascinating lesson from this experience included the fact that the English writing difficulties that the Thai scholars demonstrated were very similar to those writing problems that the author had encountered with American undergraduate and graduate students. Research writing examples and teaching strategies for promoting scholarly writing will be shared and each participant will leave the session with a paper presented on this topic at the 2011 Association for Psychological Science (APS) Teaching Institute held in Washington, D.C.
